Phases of British Conquest

Post Aurangzeb- 1707 Onwards ???

New Developments- Features of early 18th Century

Impact of the Mughal Empire getting weak Resulting into → Emergence of New States

With the decline in the authority of the Mughal emperors, the governors of large provinces, subadars, and the great zamindars consolidated their authority in different parts of the subcontinent.

Through the eighteenth century, the Mughal Empire gradually fragmented into a number of independent, regional states.

Broadly speaking the states of the eighteenth century can be divided into three overlapping groups:

(1) States that were old Mughal provinces like

Awadh,
Bengal and Hyderabad.

Although extremely powerful and quite independent, the rulers of these states did not break their formal ties with the Mughal emperor.

(2) States that had enjoyed considerable independence under the Mughals as watan jagirs. These included several Rajput principalities.

(3) The last group included states under the control of Marathas, Sikhs and others like the Jats. These were of differing sizes and had seized their independence from the Mughals after a long-drawn armed struggle.

Sa'adat Khan (Awadh), Murshid Quli Khan (Bengal) and Asaf Jah (Hyderabad).

Q. How the rise of princely states took place?

- Mughal Empire – Weak by 1707

18th Century political fragmentation

- Later Mughals very weak

- Hence emergence of regional kingdoms

All three had occupied high mansabdari positions and enjoyed the trust and confidence of the emperors.

Both Asaf Jah and Murshid Quli Khan held a zat rank of 7,000 each, while Sa'adat Khan's zat was 6,000.

 Located between Agra-Delhi

Revolted against Aurangzeb
 Established their own state @ Bharatpur

Charuman (1695-1721)

Fought against the Mughals,
 Fort at Thoon,
 1721- attacked by Jai Singh

Badan Singh (1721-1756)

Consolidated the Jat Kingdom, new forts

Surajmal (1756-1763)

Expansion of empire- Agra- Aligarh, Meerut, Bharatpur, Mathura

3rd Battle of Panipat- Initially supported Sadashiv Rao
 But later on withdrew from the Battle
 Helped the Maratha soldiers indirectly
 Known as the Plato of the Jats son Jawahir Shah had 30,000 troops of his own and hired another 20,000 Maratha and 15,000 Sikh troops to fight the Mughals.

While the Bharatpur fort was built in a fairly traditional style, at Dig the Jats built an elaborate garden palace combining styles seen at Amber and Agra.

Its buildings were modelled on architectural forms first associated with royalty under Shah Jahan

3rd Battle of Panipat- Initially supported Sadashiv Rao
 But later on withdrawal from the Battle
 Helped the Maratha soldiers indirectly- refuge and food

The Jat state came into decline after 1763
 The rohilas drained off the energy
 Petty kings continued to control pockets around Delhi, but they lost their political significance
 Marathas also took away their territories

Ahmed Shah Abdali's attacks on India- 1750s-Abdali had recognised Alamgir II as the Mughal emperor and the Rohilla chief, Najib-ud-Daula, as Mir Bakhshi of the empire

Both states – Rohillas and Bangash helped the Afghan Invasion of Ahmed Shah Abdali
3rd Battle of Panipat

Created Havoc during the 1760's against the Mughal Empire

King Shah Alam 2 had to move out of Delhi due to Afghan menace

By 1774- Warren Hastings decided to curb the Afghans

1774- Rohilla War, Awadh Nawab also participated in this conflict

Rohillas also came under the Marthas attack also A protectorate under the EIC was set up at
